With the 2023 matric results exceeding expectations, Eduvos, South Africa's leading private higher education provider, extends its warmest congratulations to every matriculant. No matter your results, Eduvos has a place for you.

The Department of Basic Education revealed that 282,894 matriculants qualified for admission to bachelor studies at universities. However, there is only space for around 197,000 first-time university students at public universities in South Africa. Eduvos recognises the growing need for accessible and diverse educational pathways.

While university space remains limited, Eduvos proudly welcomed more first-year students than some of its public university counterparts in 2023 and is poised to continue this upward trajectory. The institution provides an exceptional alternative to public universities.

"Eduvos is progressive, forward-thinking, agile, and fast-paced," says Eduvos CEO Siegie Brownlee. "Our organisation and staff live out a 'growth mindset', and fully embrace modern technologies, innovations, and changes to the professional and academic landscape to better equip our students with the skills, knowledge and attributes needed to prosper in the current and future working world."

Eduvos understands that every student's academic journey is unique. The institution has over 20 fully accredited, internationally recognised qualifications which means that no matter a student's matric results, there is a study option that works for them. These include:

- Degrees: Dive deep into your chosen field and earn internationally recognised qualifications that open doors to rewarding careers.
- Higher certificates: Gain practical, career-ready knowledge in just one year, ideal for immediate job entry or further study.
- Short courses and pre-degree programmes: Upskill, specialise, or refresh your knowledge – gain valuable credentials to stay ahead of the curve. Bridge the gap that will help you gain entry into a full Eduvos degree.
