

Jabulani Design studio launches Prosonic's new website

Jabulani Design Studio's graphic and web developers has launched Prosonic's new website.

This is a highly technical e-commerce website, with flash animation and a content management system in the back-end. The total corporate identity from logo design up to the website was done by this brilliant web development company in Centurion.

The company is also launching a second Web development company in named Jadeblue Design Studio.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>