

Call for media to put pressure on Google

Editors Weblog writes that Google is still in the firing line over use of copyrighted content, with a call from the recent Society of Editors' annual conference in Glasgow "to see more agreements [on removing publishers' material in order] to stop Google and other search engines from 'growing rich at the expense of newspapers'". For more, click here.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>