

South Africa's favourite consumer products revealed

South Africa's most innovative consumer products have been recognised in the 11th annual Product of the Year awards. Conducted by Nielsen, Product of the Year is South Africa's largest independent consumer-voted survey focused specifically on product innovation.

After trying and testing a range of products, 4,000 consumer households were surveyed, with the standout brands across the 16 categories awarded at a gala event, held at Hyde Park on Thursday.

“Based on the research Nielsen conducted in 2018 and early 2019, the local market benefited from product innovations across a number of categories, including food, DIY, healthcare and home cleaning,” says Preetesh Sewraj, CEO and chief innovation analyst at Product of the Year South Africa.

Product of the Year 2018 awards SA's favourite consumer goods

26 Feb 2018

A new efficacy category was also introduced in 2018 to recognise brands that improve consumers' home, surroundings or lifestyles.

“We continue to broaden the scope of our third-party endorsement programme to celebrate and reward brand innovation and boost awareness. This platform, therefore, guides consumers, helping them to find the best new products and services that can positively impact on their lifestyles and their pockets by delivering greater value for money,” adds Sewraj.

And the winners are...

Category	Winner
Quick meals	Ready To Chef Meal Kits
Fresh foods	County Fair Fresh Chicken Modified Atmosphere Packaging
Home care	Jewel Home Cleaning Range

Healthcare	Betadine
Air care	Lampellent Diffuser
Baby care	Bennet's Baby Bum Crème
Food packaging	Glad Zip Seal Resealable Bags
Braai	Danie's Worcestersauce Sprinkle
Feminine protection	Betadine Daily Intimate Care Range
Peri peri	Calisto's Peri Peri Tall Sauce
Snacks	Tambala Flavoured Cashews
Services	Dialdirect Insurance Payback
Health foods	Oh My Goodness range of products
Hardware	Edelweiss Super Glue
Smartphones	Huawei Mate 20 Pro
Seasoning	Marina Lighthouse Salt & Pepper #BetterTogether

Tough year for retail brands

"It was a tough year for brands, particularly those in the retail sector," says Sewraj. "The year started with a sense of optimism as South Africa enjoyed a large fuel cut and political confidence was on the rise. This confidence started to slowly be reflected in consumer spending patterns which excited the market."

#SeamlessSA: 6 questions to ask if you want more from your store

Lauren Hartzberg 14 Mar 2019

Unfortunately, the reality of the country's economic situation subsequently set in as the financial pressure on consumers mounted due to rising living costs and increased taxation. "As a result, consumer sentiment turned, which is a major driver of spending. In response, many brands chose to scale down their innovation pipelines to offset dwindling sales and rising input and production costs," Sewraj says.

"There were, however, several brands that used the opportunity to introduce new innovations in their quest to attract new business amid tougher market conditions," he adds.