Japanese fashion and beauty retail chain Miniso has launched in South Africa with an official opening at Menlyn Park Shopping Centre in Pretoria on Saturday, 5 August. The flagship store is the second Miniso outlet to open in the country with 50 more stores planned.

The retailer was founded in Tokyo in 2013 by Japanese designer Miyake Junya and Chinese entrepreneur Ye Guofu. A member of the Saiman Holdings Group, Miniso has opened more than 2,000 stores in over 50 countries since its inception. According to the company, its international success is aligned with its core brand proposition of selling "intelligent consumer products".

Its product offering is updated every seven days.

The company says it aims to offer high-quality products that are affordable and accessible. Phoebe Dongxiang, Miniso HR director says, "Our aim is to design and manufacture excellent goods at honest prices, taking into account the earth's resources and the environment to fully respect nature and the essence of the product. The personalised, smart shopping experience is what consumers in 2017 crave and we have an exceptional offering with something for everyone."
