

Nomzamo Mbatha covers Cosmopolitan South Africa's inaugural activism issue

Actress Nomzamo Mbatha is on the cover of Cosmopolitan South Africa's inaugural activism issue in celebration of Women's Month. Mbatha has been using her platform as a celebrity to shed light on issues like refugees across Africa and tackling mental health issues on campus.

The August issue is here, and it's louder than ever! August is women's month and #TheActivismIssue features one of the most fierce females, @nomzamo_m, on how she turned her celebrity status into a platform for powerful activism and humanitarian work! We decode feminism in our ultimate guide to #GRLPWR ALSO in this issue: How to say NO to sexism at work! [because #timesup] AUGUST - ON SALE NOW #COSMOxNomzamo

The magazine has also released 5,000 limited-edition covers, which are only available at Clicks stores nationwide. A portion of every limited-edition issue sold will go to the non-profit organisation Skateistan, that runs girls-only skateboarding sessions and addresses the gender divide by helping girls feel empowered through skateboarding and providing homework support and career education and planning.
