

IT training guide to include skill survey results

ITWeb's 2007 IT Training Guide, its fifth annual directory of IT and telecoms training providers and products available in January 2007, will also include the results of an end-user IT skills survey that are intended to provide insight into trends shaping IT training in corporate South Africa. Other topics include the plague of fly-by-night operators, whether training is keeping abreast of what is required from IT graduates, training to retain, and whether learnerships are working for corporate SA and the learners themselves.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>