

New learners join Point 2014 Learnership Programme

Tshepo Sensosi, Tshego Mmahlatji and Siphokazi Vice have been selected as the three new interns to join the Point Learnership Programme for 2014. The learnership programme was launched in 2013 as a platform to teach learners the intricacies of printing, the print management process and how to best service both clients and printers through a strategic process.

It addresses a number of factors from budget control, quality production, efficient reporting, matching the right supplier to the right job, to effective digital storage and use of brand assets. The new intake will be taught a wide range of skills required to excel in the print sector.
