

Call for animation projects to pitch for the 15th annual DFM Pitch and Finance Forum

The Durban FilmMart Institute (DFMI) has opened the call for animation projects to pitch for the 15th annual DFM Pitch and Finance Forum, with animators with projects in development from across the continent invited to apply.

Image supplied. The Durban FilmMart Institute has called for animation projects to pitch for the 15th annual DFM Pitch and Finance Forum

The Forum, which takes place in Durban from 19 to 22 July., is open to both series and feature-length projects and at least one of the three key creatives (producer, writer, director) should be from Africa or African in the Diaspora (with an African passport).

Eight official animation projects in development will be selected to present to a panel of international decision-makers consisting of potential co-producers, broadcasters, film funds, and distributors at Africa's premier film finance and coproduction market.

To present their project at the 15th DFM one representative from the project will be provided with travel and accommodation to attend the live Pitch and Finance Forum in July 2024 (travel support is only provided for travel within Africa).

Achieving world-class African animation through continental cross-collaboration

Danette Breitenbach 31 Aug 2023

Magdalene Reddy, director of the Durban FilmMart Institute says they have seen exponential growth in the animation sector over the past few years.

“We are pleased that the inclusion of animation in the annual market has strengthened the ecosystem by providing the much-needed visibility for creative talent, facilitating key connections to local and international decision-makers and enhancing the development that is assisting animators to compete in a global market.

“We believe that working with local and continental partners offers a holistic support structure to the already important work done in Africa,” says Reddy.

10 African producers take up 3rd Creative Producer Indaba opportunity

31 Oct 2023

Successful collaboration to continue

This edition of the programme will retain the successful collaboration between Durban FilmMart Institute and Tshimologong's Digital Lab Africa with an extended online programme in March and April.

“Tshimologong's Digital Lab Africa is thrilled to extend its 'Road to Annecy' collaboration with the Durban FilmMart Institute,” says Joy Mawela, head of Digital Content Hub at Tshimologong Precinct in Johannesburg.

“This marks the second year of our partnership, building on the success of last year's initiative that supported selected animation talents by providing a platform for project pitches at the Cape Town International Animation Festival, Annecy/MIFA in France, and culminated in Durban for the DFM Pitch and Finance Forum.

“From this forum, Digital Lab Africa selected a winner who will be part of the DLA 7 accelerator, officially launched at the Creation Africa Forum in Paris on 6 November 2023. Our collaboration with the DFMI continues to connect us with talent and intermediaries from around the world, making it a truly invaluable partnership,” explains Mawela.

Online mentorship programme

Successful project participants will be invited to participate in a comprehensive mentorship programme to prepare them for their live pitch and meetings at DFM 2024.

The online mentorship programme will include a series of masterclasses with leading global industry experts over 2 months in January and February 2024.

35 participants from 22 countries from Africa selected to DFMI Business Lab

28 Sep 2023

Application criteria

- The programme is open to African animators with an active feature-length or episodic animation project in development.

- The programme is open to both fiction and documentary animation projects.
- At least one of the 3 key creatives (producer, writer, director) must be from Africa. Project applications must be completed in English, however, the language of the project itself is up to the imagination of the animator.
- At least one representative must be available to participate in the online masterclass and mentorship programme and be present in Durban for the duration of the 15th Durban FilmMart.

Deadline for applications: Friday, 1 December

Programme dates

- Masterclass series 9 January to 9 February 2024 (online)
- Road to Annecy March to May 2024 (online)
- Pitch and Finance Forum 18 to 22 July 2024 (in person)

Applications can be made through the Durban FilmMart Institute website.

The call for live-action projects will open later this month. To keep up to date on call-outs filmmakers are encouraged to sign up for the DFMI newsletter on the website or follow on social media.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>