Some advice needed

I am currently employed as a Communications Consultant and am engaged in the 3rd year of my Communication Science degree.During this time I would also like to complete a few short courses that could contribute to making me more marketable.

Some of the courses I had in mind are writing, photography and designing (Adobe, HTML etc). The thing with the design courses is that I am uncertain as to which courses to do. I have no experience with designing at all.

What courses would you suggest I do?

Forum created by Chantal Mackay

For more, visit: https://www.bizcommunity.com