

Empowering women for business success

Issued by Freelancers Writing Services

26 Jul 2018

Enterprising women, who run their own businesses, can benefit from a Gauteng-based two-day masterclass that discusses successful entrepreneurial characteristics and attitudes and looks at the specific management issues of women in business; offering instantly usable tips and checklists.

Led by an international trainer, and owner of her own successful 30-year business, the training examines empowering techniques for business and personal use, with many concepts based on world-renowned neuro-linguistic programming (NLP) techniques. The second day unpacks marketing secrets, with exercises and checklists.

Day 1

1. Characteristics of successful entrepreneurs
2. Success begins with you – identify your management style and how to adapt
3. Attitude equals altitude – positive thinking leads to success
4. Set achievable goals – with exercise
5. Time management – stop putting things off
6. Stress management – the good, the bad and the ugly
7. Teamwork & team playing – it's about the coach!
8. Conflict management & negotiation – win/win strategies
9. Networking for referrals – how to make the most of social occasions

Day 2

1. Effective marketing – with checklists
2. Power of words – using NLP techniques to get your audience
3. Write influential press releases – exercise included
4. Advertising – what to spend, when
5. Social Media vs Traditional Media – what's working?
6. Communicate without words – body language tips
7. Personal branding – includes calculating your hourly worth
8. Who I am makes a difference – reaffirming importance of feminine qualities

About the trainers

Gwen Watkins has run various 1-, 2- and 3-day courses in South Africa, Namibia, Botswana and Mauritius, bringing an international perspective to her courses, based on her lecturing and practical business knowledge.
