In life and love, good things often come to an end and having the courage to end a relationship is never easy.

Sharing his own story of heartbreak and vulnerability Cape Town's singer-songwriter, Seth Cort, released his brand new single Left to Burn on 29 September 2023.

At the age of only 18, Seth is on his way to becoming one of South Africa's youngest new talents to take note of. After the success of his debut single Hold On, that secured him a live performance and interview on shows like Espresso on SABC 3 and saw his debut song reach the Top 10 at radio stations like Oasis SA Radio and Banks Radio Australia, Seth is ready to impress again!

With the brand new single Left to Burn, he believes listeners of all ages will be able to relate to the meaningful lyrics he has penned down and will sing along to the new track that has a modern pop feel and is easy to listen to in any environment.

"This is the kind of song you'd be listening to on a road trip or even a romantic summer afternoon. I would describe my new single as upbeat, sad and happy depending on the mood you are in when listening to it. The song has a fusion of folk and pop elements with acoustic and electric guitar. The lyrics are nostalgic, but will pull at your heartstrings," said Cort.

The process of producing Left to Burn was quite lengthy as Seth was writing his final matric exams at the time. Now that he has more time to invest in his music career, he has no plans of slowing down and will be writing and producing even more music before the end of the year.

"I have plans for a third song and a music video for Hold On in the pipeline and I will be sharing more on this on all my social media pages," added Cort.

Seth also plays the ukulele, harmonica, piano and drums. His biggest song writing and musical influences are The Lumineers, Jeremy Loops, Mathew Mole, Mumford and Sons, Vance Joy, and Sam Fender. Their diverse genres and performing styles moulded Seth into the artist he is today.
